

FTE at a Glance

Programs	Number of Programs in 2013	Number of Students in 2013	Number of Teachers in 2013	Students Impacted Since 1991 *
Economics and Leadership One-week, residential programs where teachers learn how to use interactive approaches to teach economics, and where students are introduced to economics and leadership.	13	456	175	12,389,126
Economic Forces in American History Five-day, residential, cross-curricular programs that show teachers how to integrate economics into American history courses.	3	-	135	10,002,480
The Environment and the Economy Four-day, residential, multi-disciplinary professional development programs that bring economic analysis to environmental issues.	5	-	140	9,151,440
Online Courses Web-based professional development courses for teachers seeking to improve their knowledge of economics.	6	-	150	1,750,140
Other program Offerings A variety of four-day, one-day and half-day programs that give teachers hands-on training in how to use FTE-developed classroom materials.	14	-	400	17,041,830
Right Start in Teaching Economics Four-day, residential programs for teachers new to economics that allows them to identify and learn basic economic content and develop lesson plans for effective teaching of high school economics.	3	-	90	1,794,600

* estimated

Founded

1976 as a 501(c)(3) nonprofit corporation

Mission

To introduce young individuals, selected for their leadership potential, to an economic way of thinking about national and international issues, and to promote excellence in economic education by helping teachers of economics become more effective educators.

Key Personnel

Roger R. Ream, Chairman
Gary M. Walton, President
Board of Trustees: 5 members

Website

For detailed information about the FTE, including programs for students and resources for teachers, visit www.fte.org.

Geographic Area Served

Programs are conducted nationwide and online with participants from around the world.

How Participants Are Selected

Participants are selected with help from partner organizations.

Cost

Most programs are free for teachers. Students pay a nominal application fee. Room, board and materials are all provided by the FTE.

Finances

2013 Budget: $2.9 million

- Fundraising and Grants: $1.2 million
- Endowment Utilization: $1.7 million

Professional Teachers Association

- 8,342 members
- Frequent newsletters
- Ongoing support
- Annual professional development seminars

Student Alumni Tracking

- 8,385 members in Alumni Association
- Newsletter distributed every six months
- One EFL Alumni Reunion in 2013